Executive Director
San Diego County Farm Bureau

Eric Larson is the Executive Director of the San Diego County Farm Bureau. He has held that position since January 1997. Eric began working in San Diego County's agricultural industry in 1971. Previous to joining Farm Bureau he spent 13 years as the general manager of an agricultural marketing cooperative after working in production agriculture.

In addition to his work in agriculture, Eric served two terms as a member of the Carlsbad City Council and is a past director of the Carlsbad Municipal Water District, the San Diego County Water Authority, and the Encina Wastewater Authority. He recently served as chair of the committee to re-write the City of Carlsbad's General Plan.

After almost 50 years at their previous location at 1670 East Valley Parkway, the Farm Bureau recently moved to a new location at 420 S. Broadway, Escondido - just a few blocks south of downtown Escondido.

Eric and his wife Jennifer live in Carlsbad and have two grown sons.

A Life well-lived! TERC members offer condolences...

The life of Maria Monserrat Garcia was celebrated on Saturday, March 3rd, at a special 'Celebration of Life Memorial Service' that was held at the Escondido Seventh Day Adventist Church. Maria was the wife of Pastor Jose ('Joe') Garcia, TERC's immediate past president. Maria passed away on February 17, 2018 - one day short of her 47th birthday after a long, courageous battle with cancer.

In her life, Maria united people and in her death it was obvious that she has continued to do so. Maria and Joe have 3 adult children: Heather, Joseph and Rebekah. As a show of empathy, the 'TERC Family' presented Joe and his family with a $1,000 check - a token of support from TERC members in order to provide encouragement to the family during such a difficult time.
